

FIVE FASHION NEWS

STOCKHOLM

Italian fashion editor turned street-style superstar Anna Dello Russo takes her trademark more-is-more sensibility to the fast-fashion world with a line for H&M. Only the bravest souls need apply—expect, like ADR, to be photographed when wearing the peacock-feather fascinators and garish gold sunglasses. hm.com

PARIS

Schiaparelli mania continues: This month, the iconic Jazz Age label (which announced its relaunch in May) will reveal a new head designer. Until then, a peek inside the brand's new surrealist-inspired atelier gives some insight into the direction it might be headed. schiaparelli.com

LONDON

Designer Julien Macdonald is in a New York state of mind, having just launched a private made-to-measure service that takes its cues from Big Apple landmarks such as the Chrysler Building, with style names like Central Park, Wall Street, and St. Regis. julienmacdonald.com

CHICAGO

London-born artist and filmmaker Steve McQueen gained notoriety for 2011's dark and compelling Shame. See another side of his work through January 6 at the Art Institute of Chicago's exhibition of McQueen's video installations and beautifully choreographed films. artic.edu

NEW YORK

Rose Hartman's Incomparable: Women of Style spans more than three decades of the photographer's nightlife work, capturing the most stylish women from the worlds of fashion, media, and society. The 163-page book features both iconic images and ones never before published. Who could forget Bianca Jagger's Studio 54 entrance astride a white horse? accdistribution.com/us

LONDON

Nicholas Kirkwood protégée Sophia Webster's debut resort collection has editors abuzz. Webster's playful designs run the gamut from flat sandals to skyscraping stilettoes, but the common denominators are liberal embellishments and eye-popping color. sophiagracewebster.co.uk

WE HEAR... Model, mother, and activist Christy Turlington Burns is designing a range of diaper bags for Ergobaby to benefit Every Mother Counts, the organization she founded to increase support and funding for initiatives to reduce the global maternal-mortality rate. // Kelly Klein's Pools: Reflections (Rizzoli) picks up where her debut coffee-table book, Pools (1992), left off, continuing to examine the place of swimming pools in art, culture, and the environment, in stunning images including photos taken by Klein, Bruce Weber, and Robert Mapplethorpe.

NEW YORK

T, Alexander Wang's secondary line, is diving into swimwear for resort season. The head-turning Lycra-and-mesh racer-back numbers are a stylish continuation of Wang's critically acclaimed athletics-inspired spring ready-to-wear collection. alexanderwang.com

Clockwise from top left: Ben Goldstein/Studio D (styled by Kristy Vant for Mark Edward Inc.); Mel Biles; Rose Hartman, courtesy of ACC Editions; Current, 1999; courtesy of the artist and Marlan Goodman Gallery, New York/Paris; Ben Goldstein/Studio D (styled by Deldre Rodriguez for R.J. Bennett Represents); Christophe Roué